Jisc and RLUK (Research Libraries in the UK and Ireland)

Brief History

RLUK was founded in 1983 by seven university libraries (Cambridge, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Leeds, London, Manchester and Oxford) and initially operated under the name CURL (Consortium of Research Libraries). During this time they sponsored some of the major free online UK resources to support the research work, including: Copac, a union catalogue of the holdings of over 60 UK national, academic, and specialist libraries.

Scope and Coverage

Copac supports researchers and information professionals by enabling them to search the catalogues of 90 libraries at once, including the

UK national libraries, University libraries, and specialist libraries. Copac is formed by merging the online library catalogues of major UK research libraries:

- ✓ members of the Research Libraries UK (RLUK), including the British Library, the National Library of Scotland, and the National Library of Wales / Llyfrgell Genedlaethol Cymru.
- ✓ Specialist research libraries, such as the National Art Library at the V&A.
- ✓ Museum libraries, such as the library of the Natural History Museum.
- ✓ Specialist databases, such as the Register of Preservation Surrogates.
- ✓ Nationally important research collections held in academic libraries, such as the Russian and East European Studies collection at the University of Essex.
