Brief History

The Handbook of Latin American Studies is the oldest and most prestigious area studies bibliography in the world. Its creator and first editor, historian Lewis Hanke, who, in the 1930s, launched this product. In the mid-1980s, the Library of Congress decided to test electronic typesetting of bibliographies using the Handbook as a pilot project. In preparation for automated production of the printed edition of volume 50, in 1989 the Handbook's editorial staff began inputting analytic citations in MARC format into the newly developed Generalized Bibliographies (GenBib) file, a shared file created especially for Library of Congress bibliographers. Since that time, the Handbook portion of the database has grown to more than 70,000 entries, over half annotated. In April 1993, electronic access to the Handbook was expanded exponentially by the Library of Congress' decision to provide public telnet access to the LC card catalog among the worldwide Internet community.

Scope and Coverage

HLAS Web contains bibliographic records from volumes 47-71 of the Handbook of Latin American Studies. The database includes citations for books, journal articles, conference papers, maps, and websites that pertain to the disciplines covered by HLAS. For Humanities, coverage includes: Art, History, Literature, Music, and Philosophy. For Social Sciences, coverage includes Archeology, Ethnology, Economics, Geography, Government and Politics, International Relations, Political Economy, and Sociology.

Kind of Information

Through a keyword search entries are appeared here in a listed form. Under an entry (hyperlinked title or serial number) detail bibliographic information of that particular entry is available here. Here the bibliographic information includes title, author name, publication year, ISBN/ISSN, price, physical description or pagination, HLAS annotation, HLAS subjects, HLAS identifier etc. An example is given below under the keyword search 'Economics' for clear understanding.

Title:	Foreign policy decision-making under the Geisel government: the president, the military and the foreign ministry.
Published/Created:	Brasília, Brazil: Fundação Alexandre de Gusmão, 2013.
Description:	317 p.: bibl.
HLAS annotation:	This was the doctoral dissertation defended in 1995 at the London School of Economics of one of Brazil's important foreign policy scholars. It shows how Ernesto Geisel (1974-79) reshaped the ideology of the National Security Doctrine with crucial foreign policy decisions. They were first, the abstention in the OAS voting on revoking the sanction against Cuba; second, the establishment of relations with the People's Republic of China; and third, recognition of the independence of the MPLA regime in Angola. The book refutes the idea that the National Security Doctrine is the source of Brazil's "Responsible Pragmatism" policy. [FDM]
