Department of Rural Development, Ministry of Rural Development, Govt. of India

Brief History

Accordingly, on 31st March 1952, an organization known as Community Projects Administration was set up under the Planning Commission to administer the programmes relating to community development. The community development programme, inaugurated on October 2, 1952, was an important landmark in the history of the rural development. On 18th August 1979, the Department of Rural Development was elevated to the status of a new Ministry of Rural Reconstruction. It was renamed as Ministry of Rural Development on 23rd January 1982. In January 1985, the Ministry of Rural Development was again converted into a Department under the Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Development which was later rechristened as Ministry of Agriculture in September 1985. On July 5, 1991 the Department was upgraded as Ministry of Rural Development. Initially, main thrust for development was laid on agriculture, industry, communication, education, health and allied sectors.

Scope and Coverage

Ministry of Rural Development covers information on two departments namely Department of Rural Development and Department of Land Resource. Ministry of Rural Development plays a pivotal role in the overall development strategy of the country. It gives livelihood opportunities to those in need including women and other vulnerable sections with focus on Below Poverty Line (BPL) households and help in enhancement of livelihood security.
