

Home Page

TDR
ISSN 0974-4347

Trade and Development Review

HOME ABOUT LOGIN REGISTER SEARCH CURRENT ARCHIVES ANNOUNCEMENTS SUBMIT PAPER

Home > Vol 8, No 2 (2015)

Trade and Development Review

Trade and Development Review is a peer-reviewed E-Journal published in April/ May and November/December, by the Department of Economics, Jadavpur University, Kolkata. The Trade and Development Review is intended to provide a forum for theoretical and empirical research in areas of Development Economics, Macroeconomic Theory and Policy, International trade, Open Economy Macroeconomics, Exchange Rate issues and International Migration. The TDR also invites technical notes/comments on WTO issues, rules and negotiations. For further details see Focus and scope.

Frequency: Bi-annual

Announcements

No announcements have been published.

EDITORS
» Rajat Acharyya
» Vivekananda Mukherjee

ASSOCIATE EDITORS
» Biswajit Chatterjee
» Arpita Ghose
» Ambar Nath Ghosh
» Ajitava Raychaudhuri
» Prabirjit Sarkar

EDITORIAL ADVISORY BOARD
» Kaushik Basu
» Aditya Bhattacharjee
» Eric W Bond
» Subhaya Bandyopadhyay
» Udo Brull
» Satya P. Das
» Sushil K. Mitra

Logo

URL

<http://www.tdrju.net/index.php/tdr>

Subject

Economics – Reviews - Periodicals

Accessibility

Free

Language

English

Publisher

Department of Economics, Jadavpur University

Brief History

Trade and Development Review is a Bi-annual peer-reviewed E-Journal published in April/ May and November/December, by the Department of Economics, Jadavpur University, Kolkata.

Scope and Coverage

Trade and Development Review (TDR) is intended to serve as the outlet for theoretical and empirical research in Development Economics, Macroeconomic Theory and Policy, international trade and Open Economy Macroeconomics, exchange rate regimes, international finance, international factor flows and the WTO issues. The TDR also aims at providing an outlet for discussion and dialogue in negotiating changes in the rules, trade laws and international institutions including the WTO.

Kind of Information

All the Reviews are presented with title of the article, volume details, author's name / editor's name, abstract with full text etc.

Trade and Development Review, Vol 8, No 2 (2015)

HOME ABOUT LOG IN REGISTER SEARCH CURRENT ARCHIVES SUBMIT PAPER

Home > Vol 8, No 2 (2015) > Arora

Welfare Implications of India's Trade Liberalization within ASIA: A General Equilibrium Assessment under Conjecture of Free Trade Area

Rahul Arora, Somesh Kumar Mathur

Abstract

The study is an attempt to compare various trade policy options of India within Asia by giving numbers to the welfare effect using GTAP model under various scenarios of free trade area in goods. It has used the economy-wide data of year 2011 available in GTAP-9 database. By assuming the existence of unemployment in the world, the results reveal that the ASIAN FTA would be perfect choice for all Asian regions. It would provide maximum gains to East Asia followed by Southeast Asia, West Asia, India, Central Asia and South Asia. Non-Asian regions will be in loss in all simulation scenarios. Moreover, the policy of reciprocal trade liberalization by India with Southeast Asia would provide maximum benefits to India.

Full Text: PDF

Trade and Development Review
Vol. 8, Issue 2, 2015, 69 - 95.
<http://www.tdru.net>

Welfare Implications of India's Trade Liberalization with Its Asian Partners: A General Equilibrium Analysis

Rahul Arora*
Somesh K. Mathur*

The study is an attempt to compare various trade policy options of India within Asia by giving numbers to the welfare effect using GTAP model under various scenarios of free trade area in goods. It has used the economy-wide data of year 2011 available in GTAP-9 database. By assuming the existence of unemployment in the world, the results reveal that the ASIAN FTA would be perfect choice for all Asian regions. It would provide maximum gains to East Asia followed by Southeast Asia, West Asia, India, Central Asia and South Asia. Non-Asian regions will be in loss in all simulation scenarios. Moreover, the policy of reciprocal trade liberalization by India with Southeast Asia would provide maximum benefits to India.

The full-text of an article is presented with abstract, keywords, classification details, introduction, analysis of the article, tables, different trade profile, Asia's Tariff Profile and India's Position in trade & development, different models related to trade, references, appendix tables, etc. Full-text of an article can be downloaded in PDF format.

Special Features

- ❖ Different announcement is given by Department of Economics, Jadavpur University.

Arrangement Pattern All the volumes are arranged chronologically. Under a volume, issues are also arranged chronologically. Articles in an issue are arranged content-wise.

2015 Vol 8, No 2 (2015) Vol 8, No 1 (2015)
2014 Vol 7, No 2 (2014)
2013 Vol 6, No 2 (2013)
2012 Vol 5, No 1 (2012)

Remarks The TDR encourages submission of both theoretical and empirical articles. It also invites full length papers as well as shorter technical notes/comments on globalization experiences and the WTO issues, rules and negotiations.

Comparable Tools ➤ Annual Reviews (<http://www.annualreviews.org/>)

Date of Access 10th March, 2017